Tacoma Neighborhood Councils Frequently Called Numbers Resource Guide

Tacoma's history and its neighborhoods go back to the earliest settlements. From the time Old Tacoma and New Tacoma were united in 1884, neighborhoods served as the foundation upon which Tacoma was built.

Today, with the formation of Neighborhood Councils, citizens and City government continue to build on that foundation by focusing on the places people care most about – our neighborhoods. This citizen-based effort has fostered a partnership between citizens and government, opened lines of communication, enhanced opportunities for citizen involvement, and fostered cooperation and consensus among diverse interests.

What Do the Councils Do?

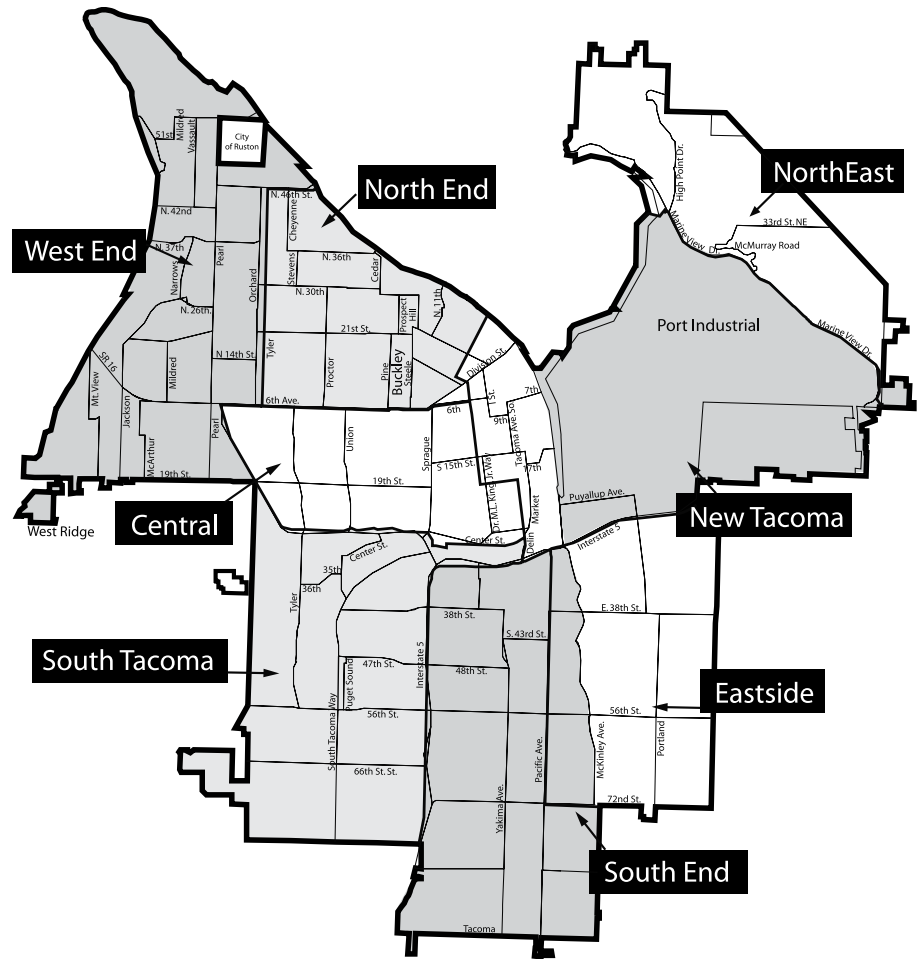

The Neighborhood Councils advise the City Council on issues important to their neighborhood(s), and seek consensus of the residents to develop a specific mission and activities. They also undertake a wide range of neighborhood improvements including playgrounds, and cooperate with the City to identify and develop solutions to mutual problems.

Who Is a Member?

Any resident, business owner, employee, property owner or member of an existing neighborhood group within each Neighborhood Council area is considered a member. To get involved, show up at the meeting, meet your neighbors, and roll up your sleeves to make a difference.

The City of Tacoma's Neighborhood Council Office has designed this guide to be a useful tool for all people involved in how their neighborhood works and how it will continue to grow through citizen-based efforts for neighborhood improvement.

If you don't know which Neighborhood Council is in your area, or where and when they meet a map has been provided on the following page.
